

Lawrence Brecht
 Institute of Reconstructive Plastic Surgery
 New York University-Langone Medical Center
 Jonathan & Maxine Ferencz Advanced Education
 Program in Prosthodontics
 New York, NY, USA

Lawrence E. Brecht, DDS, is the Director of Maxillofacial Prosthetics in at New York University College of Dentistry in the Jonathan & Maxine Ferencz Advanced Education Program in Prosthodontics. He has a joint appointment at the myFace Institute of Reconstructive Plastic Surgery, Hansjörg Wyss Department of Plastic Surgery of New York University Langone Medical Center where he serves on the Institute's Cleft Palate, Craniofacial, Ear Anomalies and Facial Transplant teams. Dr. Brecht also hold an appointment in the Department of Otolaryngology at NYU Langone as well. Dr. Brecht received his DDS from New York University and completed a residency at Boston's Brigham & Women's Hospital and a Fellowship at Harvard School of Dental Medicine. He then earned his Certificates in both Prosthodontics, as well as Maxillofacial Prosthetics from the New York Veterans Administration Hospital. He also holds adjunct faculty positions at the University of North Carolina School of Dentistry. In addition to memberships in many prosthodontic organizations, he is a past-president of the Greater New York Academy of Prosthodontics as well as a past-president of the American Academy of Maxillofacial Prosthetics. He is a frequent contributor to the plastic and maxillofacial prosthetics literature and serves as a reviewer for the Journal of Prosthetic Dentistry, The International Journal of Prosthodontics and Journal of Prosthodontics. Dr. Brecht serves on the Medical Advisory Board of myFace, a charitable organization that supports children with craniofacial conditions and their families. In addition, He sits on the board of the Maxillofacial Prosthetics Foundation as well as the Academy of Prosthodontics Foundation. He also maintains a practice limited to prosthodontics and maxillofacial prosthetics in New York City.