Title

Lifetime of Learning

Abstract

“Experience is the term that experts use for their mistakes” so said Oscar Wilde.

This personal experience spans a period from the hammering of swaged baseplates, through the Articulator Wars, to the whine of CAD/CAM in the digital era. Today’s awe inspiring therapeutic possibilities mark a staging point on a journey encompassing technique worship, mechanical idolatry and false messiahs.

The staggering improvements in worldwide communication has accelerated progress and it’s fitting that our satellite ICP meeting has returned to London where its foundations were laid more than 40 years ago

Biography

Harold Preiskel is Emeritus Professor of Prosthodontics in London. He was the first President of the ICP, one of its principal founders and was at the helm for its first nine years. He was the first non-American President of the American Prosthodontic Society, founding co-editor of the International Journal of Prosthodontics, Chairman of its Board, President of the American Dental Society of London, the British Dental Association (Metropolitan Branch), and the London Dental Study Club.
